EDITOR'S LETTER

The Hispanic Genealogical Society of Houston will host the Fifteenth Annual Conference on Hispanic Genealogy on the weekend of October 7-9, 1994 in the city of Houston, Texas.

Since the conference is all about Hispanic Genealogy we have decided to participate in it. It promises to be a rewarding experience and we would like to invite you to attend.

As soon as we have more details about the conference we will let you know about them.

On another subject, we are please to let you know that beginning with this issue we have the help of Margarita Engle translating and extracting the articles about Cuban history. She is an accomplished writer, and she is presently writing historical novel about Cuban history.

Also starting with the July issue of REVISTA, another member, Jorge Flores, will be extracting and translating the articles on family history. Mr. Flores has done a lot of work on his genealogy and related families.

We are excited to have this two members contribute to the society in such a meaningful way.

CORDOVA-VERDES
Genealogical Study of a Family
from La Habana

Coming from Madrid, in the XVIII century, a family established itself in Santiago de León de Caracas, in the then province of Venezuela, going to La Habana during the second half of the same century.

Don Rafael de Córdoba y Verdes, originally from Madrid was Lieutenant Colonel of the Royal Army of Spain. He was Sergeant of the Plaza of Caracas, where he married Doña María de la Trinidad de Castro Manon, of that nationality. They were the parents of: José Félix and María de la Trinidad de Córdoba-Verdes y Castro Manon. Of which:

1. Don José Félix de Córdoba-Verdes, who we will treat latter.

2. Doña María de la Trinidad de Córdoba-Verdes was born in Santiago de León de Caracas, and there she married Don José Félix de la Rosa. They were the parent of

Doña María del Carmen de la Rosa y Córdoba-Verdes, born in Caracas, where she married, in the parish of Santa Rosalía the 13th of November, 1800, with the doctor Juan Antonio de Garmendía y Guillén, born in the city the 12th of June , 1785 and baptized in the parish of San Pablo the 22nd of the same month (F 137, L 1). He graduated in that city the 25th of February, 1810 and was Lawyer of the tribunals of the Spanish Nation and then Lawyer in the Real Audiencia of La Habana, where he established his family, becoming the first of his family in Cuba. He was the son of Don Juan Antonio Garmendía y Jéregui, born in Tolosa, Guipúzcoa, Royal Accountant in Caracas, and Doña María Josefa Guillén y Viera, born in the port of La Gaira. They were married in the Cathedral of the city of Caracas on December 14, 1777. She died in 1794.

Don Juan de Garmendía and María del Carmen de la Rosa were the parents of Don Rafael de Garmendía y de la Rosa, born in the city of Caracas on November 17, 2807, where he graduated the 24th of July, 1828 and practiced law.

Don José Félix de Córdoba-Verdes, before mentioned, born in Santiago de León de Caracas, was Lieutenant-Colonel of the Royal Army and the Cavalry of the Plaza of La Habana, where he established his residence. He was also Governor and War Captain and Sub-Delegate of the Royal Properties in Santa María de Puerto Principe, today the city of Camagüey. Prior to that he was Sub-Lieutenant of the Infantry Regiment of Flandes and Knight of the Royal Order of San Hermenegildo. He died in the town of San Nicolás de Bari (San Nicolás de Güines), province of La Habana, after leaving his last will and testament on November 14, 1827 before Manuel de la Torre, military notary public. His death is entered on the parish register of the parish of Santo Angel Custodio the 2nd of May, 1837 (F.99, No. 416, L. 9). He married twice in this city: the first in the parish of Santo Cristo del Buenviaje, the 28th of October, 1782 (F. 178, No. 704, L. 5), with María de Jesús de Castro Palomino y Rodríguez de Morejón, Ruíz-Guillén y Biedma, born in that city, whose death is found in the parish of San Juan de Jaruco (province of Habana) the 19th of April, 1798. She was the daughter of Gabriel de Castro-Palomino y Ruíz-Guillén, Borroto y Loza and Rita María Rodríguez de Morejón, Biedma, González de Alverja y González de Carvajal, both from Habana.

The second marriage of José Félix de Córdoba-Verdes was in the Cathedral of La Habana, the 16th of December, 1798 (F. 61, No. 181, L. 8), with María Josefa Hidalgo-Gato y Murguía de Mena, Rodríguez de Morejón y Fernández de Zaldívar, born in Guamutas, province of Matanzas. She left her last will and testament with Vicente Rodríguez Pérez, the 6th of September, 1851, and died in La Habana. Her death in entered in the parish of Santo Angel Custodio the 5th of May 1853 (F. 77, No. 227, L. 11). She was the daughter of Manuel José hidalgo-Gato y Rodríguez de Morejón, Vergara y González de Alverja, and Catalina Francisca Murguía de Mena y Fernández de Zaldívar, Cárdenas-Vélez de Guevara y Jiménez-Borroto, married in the Cathedral of La Habana the 5th of April, 1769.

From his first marriage, José Félix de Córdoba-Verdes was the father of: José Joaquín de la Trinidad, and Manuel María Wenceslao de Córdoba-Verdes y Castro-Palomino.

From his second marriage José Félix de Córdoba-Verdes was the father of: María de Jesús del Rosario, Francisca, María de la Trinidad, Manuela María, Bernardo José, María Isabel Cecilia, Antonio María Néstor and Rafael María del Rosario de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo-Gato.

Of which:

1. José Joaquín de la Trinidad de Córdoba-Verdes y Castro Palomino is treated as "First Lineage".
2. Manuel María Wenceslao de Córdoba-Verdes y Castro Palomino is treated as "Second Lineage".
3. María de Jesús del Rosario de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo Gato is treated as "Third Lineage".
4. María de la Trinidad de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo Gato, is treated as "Fourth Lineage".
5. Manuela María de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo Gato, was born in Santa María de puerto Principe and never married. She died at the age of sixty seven, after leaving her last will and testament in La Habana, dated May 6, 1873. Her death ins recorded in that city, at the parish of Espíritu Santo the 22nd of July, 1873 (F. 71, No. 422, L. 27).

6. Bernardo José de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo Gato is treated as "Fifth Lineage".

7. María Isabel Cecilia de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo Gato is treated as "Sixth Lineage".

8. Antonio María Néstor de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo Gato is treated as "Seventh Lineage".

9. Rafael María del Rosario de Córdoba-Verdes e Hidalgo Gato is treated as "Eighth Lineage".

Monte, Emilio Del: Engineer, wrote about cable railways. Received his education in Paris.

Moreno de la Torre, Gustavo. Distinguished doctor from Cárdenas. Retired Professor of the University of Havana. Wrote medical studies, including one published in one of the first medical science magazines of London, The Lancet, 1904. His brother Manuel, who died very young in 1891, had a promising career and wrote several notable medical works.

Morales, Sebastián Alfredo de: Son of Sebastián M. de Morales of Tarif. Although born in Havana, either in 1918 or 1920, Sebastián A. lived in Matanzas and regarded it as his second cradle. He was a close friend of Plácido, and was involved in the conspiracy of Narciso López, resulting in his exile to the Philippines in 1848. There he studied botany and practiced allopathic medicine. He returned to Havana in disguise after several years in exile. He collected 11,000 mollusc, and in 1860 wrote, in collaboration with Fernando Domínguez, Elementos de Física. In 1862 he presented to the Academy of Sciences his Nosografía del Colocolo, a study of a disease among natives of the island of Luzón. He also wrote Plantas Textiles. His documentation and herbaria for the first Flora Cubana were lost during a flood in 1870. In Venezuela, Morales joined the movement of Yara, with orders from Céspedes. There he received his homeopathic degree under a German doctor, and remained for nearly nine years, until the peace of Zanjón. He cooperated actively in the expedition of the Virginus. His first wife was the poetess and writer Catalina Rodríguez, who founded a newspaper in Caracas, and wrote dramas to raise funds for Cuban rebels. Upon his return to Cuba, Morales brought documents he considered precious to Cuba's history, but his wife, fearful that they might bring danger, burned them before disembarking. His last wife, Modesta Laura Romera y Cortés, assisted Morales after he was named Professor of the Escuela Normal de Colombia. Morales helped establish the scientific journal Repertorio Físico-Natural de la Isla de Cuba, which described new species of plants. He also wrote many unpublished literary works and studies of agriculture, mineralogy and chemistry.

Ozamendi y Valds, Juan Calixto: Born in Matanzas October 14, 1829, and died June 24, 1885. Distinguished doctor who studied in Paris and Havana, was a member of the Academia de Ciencias of Havana, and various foreign scientific associations. Spoke various languages, and translated from the German a study by Hagen of childhood diseases.

Pimienta, Eugenio. Distinguished engineer, born in Matanzas in 1830, studied in Paris. Published a study of sugar processing. Resided in Cárdenas, where he died unknown.

Piqué, Francisco. Distinguished engineer from Matanzas, a contemporary of Pimienta. He married the daughter of Pedro José Guiteras. He is recognized for his work on the Continental Railroad, which was to join North and South Americas.

Plasencia y Lizaso, Ignacio G. Born in Ciudad de Alacranes on September 30, 1843, and died in Havana July 19, 1913. He studied in Havana, where he received the Medalla-Premio de Anatomía Descriptiva. In Paris, under the most illustrious physicians of that time, he continued his studies of surgery and obstetrics. In 1876 he received his title of Doctor at the Universidad Central de Madrid, then returned to Cuba, where he received many honors for his accomplishments in the most challenging surgeries, such as the disarticulation of muscles and the double ovariectomy. He is credited with applying the discoveries of Pasteur in Cuba. He wrote La Uretrotomía en Cuba, La Apendicitis, and many other notable studies of surgery and clinical cases. He collaborated in the cause of Cuban liberation from Spain. The family included various other notable doctors, including Dr. Tomás A. Plasencia y Lizaso (1840-1894), brother of Dr. Ignacio Plasencia and author of studies of medical statistics; Dr. Ignacio Benito, son of Ignacio G. Plasencia and a distinguished surgeon specializing in gynecology and obstetrics.; Dr. Leonel Plasencia, nephew of Ignacio G. Plasencia, a noted bacteriologist.

Presas y Morales, Manuel J. He was born in Matanzas on January 22, 1845, and died April 1874, after inoculating himself with diphtheria while seeking a cure. He was a noted doctor and naturalist, a member of the Sociedad Española de Historia Natural de Madrid, where his collections were taken before his death. His versatility is shown by the variety of his writing, which included La Historia Natural en Cuba, Memoria sobre Cementerios, and a literary "Estudio sobre la locura del Quijote."

Rodríguez y Acosta, Filomeno. He was born in Matanzas on December 23, 1880, became a very distinguished doctor, and was celebrated by the Academia de Ciencias de la Habana for numerous studies, including Causas que determinan un aumento en la mortalidad por afecciones cardio-arteriales, and numerous articles in the Revista Médica Cubana, such as "Intoxicación grave por la atropina" in 1913 and "Lesiones anatómicas del corazón, de origen paludico" in 1915. One of his best-known works was presented before the fourth Medical Congress in Cuba in 1917, La Herencia como factor etiológico de las enfermedades vasculares, dado el incremento de esas afecciones en Cuba. He was also a novelist, author of El Incompatible and El Doctor Doris.

Santos Fernández, Juan. He was born June 2, 1847 in Alacranes, began his studies at the Colegio de Belén in 1861, and completed them in 1872 in Madrid, where he received his doctorate in medicine. In Paris he specialized in ophthalmology, and in Toledo he conducted 200 cataract operations. He returned to Cuba in 1875 after being named a Socio Corresponsal de la Academia de Ciencias de la Habana. He introduced to Cuba the rabies vaccine developed by Pasteur, and was the author of nearly a thousand scientific studies, including Crónica Médico-Quirúrgica de la Habana, El estudio sobre la operación de la catarata, La Higiene de la Vista and La vacunación antirábica en la Habana. He was honored with membership in scientific associations of France, Spain and Mexico as well as Cuba.

Simpson y Zurriarain, Luis. He was born in 1842 and died in 1891. In 1867 he wrote a book about coins of the world. He also wrote historical studies of Matanzas, did scientific research in Germany, and was a dedicated meteorologist.

Souza, Benigno. Notable surgeon, a native of the Ingenio Arzalia on the land of Pedro Betancourt in Matanzas. He studied at the Colegio El Progreso and the Universidad de la Habana. He became Director of the Emergency Hospital, published various scientific works, and became known for his work at the Clinic of the Doctors Fortún y Souza.

Tomás, Vicente A. Distinguished doctor, writer and artist. However, he did not like to have his works become known or praised, and before his death wanted to destroy various literary works, including poetry, satires and the novel "Y tenga Ud. hijos." He was President of the Liceo of Matanzas in 1903, and died in 1911.

Toraya, José F. 1858-1914. Architect from Cárdenas. He received the gold medal at the International Congress of Tuberculosis in Washington in 1908, for his housing projects for workers in the tropics.

Torrallas, José I. Born in Matanzas January 23, 1842, and died in Havana December 6, 1903. He was a dedicated abolitionist, and for his role in the independence struggle, was forced into exile in Puerto Rico and Venezuela after October 10, 1868. He continued his patriotic work in Caracas, returned to Cuba after the first war, and continued his political efforts on February 24, 1895. He was sent into exile again, this time in the United States. After the triumph he founded the Partido Nacional. As a doctor, he produced studies of childhood diseases and public hygiene as well as natural history, agriculture, anthropology, tetanus, malaria, demographics, hydrology, diphtheria, typhoid, plant-insect interactions, and other topics. He was honored by many scientific associations.

Torre y Huerta, Carlos de la. Distinguished naturalist. He was born in Matanzas on May 15, 1858. He studied at the school of A. Guiteras, La Empresa, then took courses in Medicine, Pharmacology and Sciences at the Universidad de Habana, where he won many honors. In 1883 he received his title of Doctor of Science at the Universidad Central de Madrid. He obtained, against opposition, a teaching post in the Natural History and Philosophy Dept. of the Instituto de Puerto Rico. In 1884, also against opposition, he was granted teaching post of Anatomy at the University of Habana. In 1885 he received the same honor when he started teaching "Mollusc and Zoophytes" at the same university. Later he also taught geology, paleontology, anthropology and biology. He represented Cuba at various scientific congresses, expositions and international meetings, where he received many honors, including membership in the Zoological Society of France, the Academy of Natural Science of Philadelphia, Life Membership in The American Museum of Natural History, and an honorary Doctor of Science from Harvard, granted in 1912. One of his most important studies was the Excursión Arqueológica por Oriente, in which he resolved ethnographic questions from Caney. He also discovered new species of Cuban mollusc and found evidence of continental Pleistocene fauna in central Cuba. He restored the skeleton of Megalocnus rodens. He was also active in politics, and held several offices, including mayor of Habana.

Trelles, Jorge A. 1863-1911. A doctor from Matanzas, he conducted an important demographic study published in Matanzas in 1893 by the Crónica Médico-Quirúrgica. He also published other interesting books.

Ulmo y Truffin, Andrés. Distinguished doctor. He was born in 1852 and died in 1899. He graduated in Paris in 1875, worked in Madrid, and returned to Matanzas in 1882. He was noted for his studies of medical law. He is remembered for his philanthropic works alibiating the terrible situation imposed by the government in this province.

Valdés Anciano, José A. Distinguished Neurologist. He received his Degree in Surgery in 1888, and Doctorate in 1904, at the Universidad de la Habana. He was Director of the Asilo-Hospital for children in Matanzas, Cuba's first. During U.S. intervention he was Surgeon of the American Army and Chief of the Health Dept. in Matanzas, the first Cuban to be given these responsibilities. He also worked at the Hospital Civil de Matanzas, and at the Universidad de la Habana. In 1901 he was named member of the Institute for Yellow Fever of the Marine Hospital Service. He was honored by the Philadelphia Neurological Society as well as several Medical Societies in Belgium and Paris. He wrote clinical case studies, some published in Paris and the United States. He compiled a bibliography of 14,000 studies of nervous and mental disorders, and collected a medical library of 32,000 volumes, specializing in neurology.

Vaugiraud, Teodoro. Born in 1806, he was a mechanical-industrial engineer. Around 1845 he was the first to teach Cubans how to use steam engines. In 1857 he was in charge of installing the Armory in Havana, and a few years later he directed workshops of the Ferrocarriles Urbanos.

Vera, Félix de. Distinguished doctor and philanthropist. Although born, by chance, in Havana, his family was from Matanzas, and he died there on January 2, 1914. He founded orphanages and the Instituto de Vacunación. He was mayor of Matanzas city, and Director of the Sanatorium of the Spanish Colony. He wrote various important scientific works, some of them in collaboration with doctors Mádan, Coronado and others.

Vidal Solares, Francisco. Born in Cárdenas in 1854. He lived in Barcelona, where he gained fame as a pediatrician, founder of a children's hospital, and author of several works, including Manual de Ginecología Operatoria, and Consejos familiares sobre higiene de la primera infancia, which was translated into French and Italian. He received gold medal awards from the Academia de Medicina de Jerez, for his Estudio sobre la difteria, and Oportunidad de la Traqueotomía. He was honored by various medical societies in Europe, and edited a periodical published in Barcelona, Archivos de Ginecopatia, Obstetricia y Pediastra.

Zayas y Jiménez, Francisco Ma. Notable doctor and agronomist, brother of José Ma. Zayas. Born in Matanzas September 24, 1827, probably in Sabanilla, and died in Havana in April, 1919. He was known as an agronomist, academic of the Science Academy of Havana, and as a poet, writer and orator. He received various honors. he was President of the first Medical Congress that took place in Cuba; Secretariat of Public Instruction in 1898 and had a post at the University of Havana. His knowledge of agronomy was excellent.

Zayas y Jiménez, Juan Bruno. Notable doctor and philanthropist, born in Matanzas October 15, 1825, and died July 5, 1885. He wrote medical works, and in 1872 he published, at his own expense, a study of childhood hygiene by M.P. Braidwood. (There was another Juan Bruno Zayas y Alfonso, also a doctor as well as a brigadier, who died in 1896, was a native of Havana, and brother of Dr. Alfredo Zayas, ex-candidate for President of the Republic.)

Ximeno, Alberto de. Engineer, born in 1853. He became known in Paris, where he was a distinguished student at the Escuela Central. He wrote an important study of railroads, which received honors.

Marriages 1690 to 1745

The transcriptions from the Cathedral of ^{Santa Clara, Cuba.} ~~Santiago de Cuba, Oriente~~, are of selected families that were being studied at the time by Francisco Xavier de Santa Cruz and his associates.

The extractions cover the years 1690 to 1881. This first part ends with the year 1745. The next publication will include the rest of the entries.

The information contained in the following listing has the same format as previously used. To recap: The surname and given name are found first, followed by the sex of the individual, the date of the marriage, a letter indicating whether the individual listed is the one being married (M), or is associated genealogically (G); this G follows the names of parents or other spouses and witnesses, if any. The numbers at the very end refer to the page and entry number of the original transcription. These are helpful in looking at the individuals identified in a given entry and may also be used for further reference in corresponding with CGS to get a printout of the entry as it appears in the original transcription.

PARISH REGISTER OF SANTA CLARA, LAS VILLAS, CUBA

SOCIETY NOTES:

I would like information on my maternal great grand parents who traveled to Cuba from New Orleans around 1870-1880. Robert and Alice Waugh were Scottish immigrants who arrived to New Orleans in the early 1840's. Robert Waugh worked as a machinist building sugar mills in Cuba. Their daughter, Elizabele (Ysabel) was born in New Orleans in 1856, and married Ezequiel Torres Fernández from Almeria, Spain in the 1880's. The Torres-Waugh family were founding members of the Presbyterian Church in Cuba. Any information will be appreciated and any cost will be refunded. Please write to Jorge R. Piñon, 15522 Scenic Shore Drive, Kingwood, TX 77345.
